

SAFETY SUNDAY IN OHIO MARKED BY 13 DEATHS

Several Are Injured in Columbiana County
Accidents

AUTOS COLLIDE ON LISBON ROAD

Washingtonville Motorists
Brought to City
Hospital

Thirteen deaths on Ohio high-ways gave an ironical twist to the pucky state's "Safety Sabbath" yesterday.

Despite Governor Davey's proclamation, and sermons on safety from many pulpits, the state's grim death toll was undiminished as warm weather lured thousands of motorists out for country tours.

Several persons were injured in mishaps in the Columbiana county area, none seriously, however.

Traffic was blocked on the Salem-Lisbon road, two miles above Lisbon, Saturday night when two automobiles collided.

In that wreck four persons were hurt, three being admitted to the Salem City hospital.

H. W. Lutes, driving north enroute to his home in Alliance, said his car was struck by a south bound car. Lutes was injured about the left shoulder.

Passengers in the other car were Thomas Senior, 50, Washingtonville, scalp wounds and body bruises; Lebbie Senior, 25, a son, back of neck cut, face badly lacerated by glass; Raymond Longbottom, 14, Washingtonville, severe scalp wound.

The three were brought to the hospital in the Eells ambulance. The wrecked cars were towed to a Lisbon garage. State highway patrolmen investigated.

Longbottom was the only one to remain at the hospital today. His condition was described as good.

The fatal Ohio accidents were topped by a terrific head-on collision between two automobiles on a curve near Kenton which resulted in the deaths of four persons. Two of the victims were killed in the wreckage and burned to death. The third died.

Mrs. Matilda Arnold, 45, Port Wayne, Ind.; Henry G. Bergman, 32, Dayton; Eugene Linn, 30, Alger, O.; and Mrs. Estella Walters, 40, Alger, O. Four persons were injured.

Mrs. Harry Boehner, 56, of Sebring, died in an Alliance hospital from injuries received when struck by a truck in Sebring.

Another head-on collision, in Columbus, brought death to two youths. Robert Dabe, Ohio State University freshman, and Paul Shalovsky, 23.

A Cincinnati artist, Elmore C. Jones, 26, was killed by a hip-scraper. Police arrested a suspect. Donald Garret, 5, of Shelby, was struck and killed by an auto in Mansfield.

Two Sharon, Pa., youths were killed. Youngstown, where their auto plunged over a ten-foot embankment. The victims were John Dean, 19, and Robert Beck, 20.

Mrs. William J. Morrison, 60, was killed in Akron when struck by an auto while crossing a street.

Mrs. Mary Tish, 56, of Cleveland, was injured fatally when she stepped from behind a parked car into the path of an oncoming auto.

TWO MINERS DIE IN COAL SLIDE

Two Others Hurt, Third
Missing in Steubenville Accident

STEUBENVILLE, Oct. 14.—A fall of coal in the Hi Shaft mine killed two men today and injured two. A third man was missing. The mine is located four blocks from the main section of the city.

The dead were John Burstin, 54, an electrician, and Emerson Wolf, a pumper.

Rescuers dug through the debris in an effort to locate Richard Riser, 49, one of five men who entered the mine shaft to repair damage caused by another fall.

Matt Castner, 40, was taken to a hospital with back injuries. Jack Mont, 38, received injuries to his side.

They were working toward the front shaft which enters a hillside, and escaped the full force of the fall.

Rescuers said Riser may have found a protected place by running further inside the shaft. They could not determine immediately how large an area the fall covered.

Annual Membership Campaign
Here Directed by Clyde McKee;
Goal Is Higher

Salem chapter's annual Red Cross roll call campaign opened today with a determined effort on the part of officers and campaign managers to increase the membership for the coming year.

As general chairman, J. Clyde McKee has the assistance of E. S. Dawson and Paul Covert, who will conduct the campaign in the factory district, and Mrs. J. R. Stratton who will direct work in the business district.

Ministers in churches throughout the city made pleas from their pulpits Sunday for support of the Red Cross in its social service, nursing, veterans aid and many other activities.

Membership dues obtained during the campaign will be used to support the work of the Salem chapter during the year. An especially heavy program is ahead of it during the coming winter and chapter workers hope the campaign will provide sufficient support for them to take care of this increased work.

SUPREME COURT AGREES TO ACT ON TVA AND AAA

Consents to Pass Upon
Constitutionality of
New Deal Acts

THOMAS J. MOONEY CASE IS REFUSED

Stays Out of Case Pending
California
Decision

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The supreme court agreed today to pass on the constitutionality of two vital new deal measures—the AAA and TVA acts.

It refused, however, to review the conviction of Thomas J. Mooney, serving a life sentence in San Quentin penitentiary for complicity in the 1916 San Francisco preparedness day parade bombing.

Consider 200 Cases

These were among more than 200 cases the court refused or agreed to review. The announcement in each case consisted only of one word: "Agreed" or "refused." There will be no opinions for several weeks.

The high court refused to act in the Mooney case prior to a decision by the California courts where the case now is pending.

Last January, the supreme court refused to pass on the celebrated controversy on the ground Mooney had not exhausted all avenues open to him in the state tribunals.

There was an intimation that when he had done so—and if the decision should be adverse—the court might then consider the case.

Serving Life Term

Once before—shortly after his conviction—the court declined to pass on the dispute. He is serving a life term in San Quentin penitentiary, his death sentence having been commuted by President Wilson.

Counsel for Mooney, in asking again for a review, contended the present California proceedings were a "travesty of a judicial hearing" and asserted the high court should take jurisdiction.

Girl Slayer Dies Tonight

Gerald Thompson, 26, to Pay for Attack on Cafe Hostess

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 14.—Gerald Thompson, 26-year-old Peoria toolmaker, today counted his last fleeting hours before he was scheduled to pay with his life at the old prison tonight for the attack slaying of 19-year-old Mildred Hallmark, a cafe hostess.

Gov. Horner refused last week to grant executive clemency.

One hour before midnight, Warden George Sehring said, Thompson will be prepared for the electric chair by shaving a spot on his head and another on the calf of one leg.

Witnesses on Hand

From his cell to the death chamber is only 25 feet. Just outside the death chamber guards will put a black hood over his head.

He will be strapped into an electric chair in view of about 100 policemen, sheriffs and newspapermen separated from the prisoner only by a plate glass wall.

The Rev. Elgius Weir, Catholic prison chaplain, will walk to the chair with Thompson.

Thompson, an employee of the same factory where Miss Hallmark's father, John, worked, offered her a ride in an automobile the night of June 17, as she was returning from a theater.

Railroad Goal of Italian Army

Italy's invading forces have as one of their main objectives in Ethiopia the single track railroad which extends for 500 miles from the French seaport of Djibouti to the capital of Ethiopia, Addis Ababa. Started in 1897, the road was not completed until 1917. Delays encountered because of wild tribesmen who molested workers and difficulties resulting from the protracted rainy season made it an engineering feat of importance. Dire-Daoua is the midway station on the line which is Ethiopia's main outlet to the sea. Although a monopoly, the road has never proved profitable because most of the territory it traverses is barren unpopulated wasteland.

LABOR ADOPTS 30-HOUR PLAN

William Green Announces
Start of Fight for
New Work Week

(By Associated Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 14.—The American Federation of Labor convention voted unanimously today to fight for a 30-hour work week through American business and industry.

"We're going out of here and fight for this as we have never fought before," shouted William Green, federation president, just before the convention approved the shorter work week committee's report that the federation should use both its economic strength and its influence in congress to reduce working hours.

"If there's anyone who opposes this, let him get out of the way because the American Federation of Labor will not tolerate a slacker."

This last remark followed a question from the floor by W. R. Trotter, delegate from International Typographical union, as to whether the advocates of the 30-hour work week could depend on "at least neutrality" from those members of the executive council who do not support this.

Edward J. Gahner, chairman of the shorter work week committee and a member of the council, said he didn't know of any opposing council members. Trotter, interviewed by reporters, declined to enlarge upon his remark.

Seek Delay For Bruno Hauptmann

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 14.—Eugene Rosecrans, one of Bruno Hauptmann's lawyers, started the legal proceedings today to save Hauptmann from the electric chair while his attorneys were carrying his fight to the supreme court of the United States.

Rosecrans appeared before Chancellor Luther A. Campbell and made application for a stay of execution of the death sentence, pending a request that the supreme court grant Hauptmann a writ of certiorari.

Chancellor Campbell suggested that the application be made before the full court of errors and appeals in Trenton tomorrow. Rosecrans agreed to do this.

FINANCE BLOCKADE AGAINST ITALY TO BE VOTED TONIGHT

League of Nations Committee of 18 Approves
Project and Sends It to General Staff for Sanctions

ENFORCING COMMITTEE PLANNED

Loan and Credit Measures Calculated to Make Mussolini Uncomfortable; Britain
Seeks Sharper Measures

By WADE WERNER
(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Oct. 14.—The League of Nations committee of 18 for "immediate sanctions" approved today a project for a financial blockade of Italy.

Only minor alterations were made in the text of the blockade resolution as submitted by the league's financial sanctions committee.

The proposal went to the general staff for sanctions, comprising representatives of all league states, except Italy and Ethiopia, and it was anticipated generally that the financial blockade would be voted finally tonight.

Effective Tonight

League experts said that therefore the financial isolation of Italy—barring accidents—would go into effect tonight.

Dr. Rute Guinazu of Argentina, president of the league council, told the committee of 18 that Argentina made no objections to financial sanctions against Italy but said their operation might raise a constitutional question in Argentina.

He said it might be necessary for his nation to ask its supreme court whether the Argentine constitution permits the application of sanctions and, in case of an unfavorable ruling, to ask the Argentine parliament to meet to discuss the question.

The committee of 18 plans to set up a permanent sub-committee to watch over the application of the financial sanction—in other words, to make sure they really work.

British and French delegates decided to put off final agreement on drastic economic sanctions by the league until others, milder measures at least have been tried to cut short Italy's warfare in Ethiopia.

With an arms embargo against Italy already voted, the league committee of 18 took up recommendations by the financial sanctions committee for an assortment of loan and credit measures calculated to make Mussolini uncomfortable financially.

Britain had been pressing for sharper economic sanctions, but delegates of smaller states, such as Greece and Roumania, were reluctant to deal with these measures without a compensation arrangement which would reimburse them in some form for loss of Italian markets.

The French presented a view that such economic projects as Britain's "buy nothing from Italy" proposals should be postponed for a trial of less serious measures.

British accepted postponement of a decision on this matter until later in the week, with the understanding that the committee of 18 would discuss an imports embargo project and a plan for export bans on certain products, without attempting to decide immediately which plan should be tried first.

The league's severe financial sanctions, as distinguished from harsh economic measures, were approved by the league sanctions committee yesterday.

Diplomats described the resolutions of the financial sanctions committee as containing these measures:

1.—Prohibition of all loans destined for the Italian government and all subscription for loans issued elsewhere on behalf of the Italian government.

2.—A ban on banking credits destined for Mussolini's government and continuation of loan contracts for that government.

3.—Prohibition of loans destined for Italian public authorities or any person or societies in Italian territory, as well as all subscriptions for such loans issued in Italy or elsewhere.

4.—A ban on all issues of shares or other capital destined for persons or societies in Italian territories, as well as subscriptions for such issues in Italy and elsewhere.

5.—Prohibition of all banking and other credits destined for persons and societies in Italian territory, and continuation of such contracts existing in favor of such persons and societies.

6.—A ban on issue of solde d'emprunt (paid account certificates) or loans or shares of capital based on contracts execution of which has not ended.

7.—Prohibition by participating governments of all transactions mentioned in the first six points, whether effected directly or through an intermediary.

AKSUM IS TAKEN WITHOUT SHOT

Ethiopian Sacred City Is Occupied by Italian
Forces

BY ANDRUE BERKING
(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

ADUWA, Ethiopia, 4 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 14.—Italy took the Ethiopian sacred city of Aksum without firing a shot today, the Degiac, or governor, coming here and making his submission to General Maravigna of the Fascist northern forces.

The governor of Aksum, accompanied by clergy of the Ethiopian city, traveled 20 miles to surrender formally to the Italian authorities.

All warriors who had been holding the sacred city evacuated.

The entire civilian population indicated its submission to General Emilio De Bono, high commissioner of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland, and commander in chief of the Italian forces in East Africa.

The Italians postponed any attack on the center of Ethiopia's Coptic Christian church to avoid arousing the religious feelings of the populace.

The peaceful possession of the city caused the Italian high command to express great joy.

Sheriffs Argue Over Prisoner, Wanted In Bad Check Incidents

LISBON, Oct. 14.—When Elwood Letzhus was arrested here a week ago at the request of Parkersburg, W. Va., officers on an affidavit filed with Justice of the Peace M. C. Morrison at Parkersburg, charging Letzhus with passing a worthless check for $785.23, it proved to be only the beginning of his trouble.

Parkersburg officers came here Saturday, prepared to file a fugitive from justice warrant against Letzhus. At the same time, the sheriff from Harrison county interviewed Prosecuting Attorney George L. Lefferty, presenting an indictment returned against Letzhus by a recent Harrison county grand jury, charging him with passing a worthless check in that county of the purported value of $699.50. This check was drawn on the People's State bank here, while the check given H. E. Beagle at Parkersburg for $785.23 was drawn on the New Waterford Savings & Banking Co., at New Waterford.

Before these officers arrived here, Letzhus' attorney went before Probate Judge H. W. Hammond and filed a habeas corpus proceeding in an effort to obtain the release of his client.

Parkersburg officers agreed finally to surrender Letzhus to the Harrison county court.

Letzhus has been engaged in buying livestock and in the coal business in this district.

Farmers Enjoy Good Yield On Potatoes

The potato crop throughout the county now is being harvested, and according to views of some growers, the yield this season will be heavier than for several years.

This is said to be due to the moist ground and warm weather during the height of the growing season. Acreage yields have not been reported by the larger growers, although these will be announced within the next two weeks, local farmers predicted.

SANCTIONS

The United States is going to learn a good deal about sanctions in the near future. The world, itself, is unfamiliar. Formally defined, sanctions are "coercive intervention annexed to a violation of the law as a means of enforcing the law." Simply defined, sanctions are merely punishments. Parents use sanctions when they refuse to give Johnny money to go to a movie and buy an ice cream soda because he doesn't eat his spinach.

The simple definition is the useful one for understanding what the majority of members of the League of Nations are going to try to do to Italy for invading Ethiopia. In effect, they have agreed to punish Italy for disregarding their collective agreement regarding war. The terms of the punishment are somewhat vague. Thus, Great Britain punished Italy last Thursday night by refusing to transmit a broadcast from Italy to the United States. In that case, punishment resembles closely a move to keep the United States from getting Italy's viewpoint, with this country's population as an innocent victim. The British, apparently, have lost none of the skill which enabled them to control American opinion in the first stages of the World war.

There are two kinds of sanctions, positive and negative. The latter kind will be employed first. Italy will be denied privileges which it would enjoy under ordinary circumstances. The former kind, vastly more dangerous, would entail the use of military force against Italy. If it becomes necessary to use force, Europe probably will go to war. Italy has warned that it will retaliate if military sanctions are applied.

It is plain, therefore, that sanctions are full of consequences, not all of them beneficial by any means. Up to a certain point, Italy might be punished for invading Ethiopia with safety. Past a certain point, punishment becomes persecution and, therefore, a challenge to pride. There is a time for moderation and compromise in dealing out punishment. Nothing can be gained by driving the victim into a corner.

Italians believe they are being treated unjustly. They are angry and hurt. Naturally, they are unable to see any justice in what is being done for the purpose of preventing them from carrying out their plan in Africa. If sanctions are actually applied, it will be only a short time until Italy will be harboring a conviction of persecution. The next step would be a decision to fight back. Italy's conception of itself as a martyr might be shared, furthermore, by other governments—Germany, Austria and Hungary, for instance. The prospect suggests that sanctions, however noble they may appear in theory, are possibly the easiest method Europe ever has discovered to pick a fight.

ILLUSION

Newspaper readers were interested recently in a list of 25 men who rule the world. The list was taken from a book called "Our Lords and Masters," which says that the world is rushing headlong to the brink of catastrophe and from now until 1950 it will be nip and tuck whether civilization can be preserved at all, let alone the present state of affairs.

The author, whoever he is, has an interesting idea. If 25 men rule the world, then it should be possible to change everything at will merely by destroying the 25 men. Assume, for the sake of argument, that the whole 25 could be eliminated some day at luncheon. The next day at luncheon, then, the world would be without its 25 rulers, wouldn't it?

Not at all. The next day the world still would be ruled by its passions, prejudices, ideals, notions, principles, or whatever name one cares to give the products of human thought. It would be ruled, also, by the instincts of men, the accidents of climate and terrain and certain immutable laws of the universe. In the course of time the places of the 25 deposed rulers would be taken by 25 other rulers, who wouldn't do much better or much worse than the original 25. There would be financiers, soldiers, politicians—all wanting to believe they were ruling the world, but knowing down deep in their hearts that their power was merely the result of a combination of circumstances and that, in reality, the world was ruling them.

In other words, besides being excellent publicity for a book, the list of 25 rulers which newspaper readers studied also was delightful fantasy. Some men simply can't forego the temptation to believe everything could be made different by changing the names of the figureheads.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Diary: Out by the river to watch the barges, and to Valentine William's flat and he gave me an autographed copy of his latest mystery, and by post, gaily inscribed, came Lucius Beebe's cultured volume, "This Boston." Then to Earl Benham's, and Col. William Hayward there. Also Ed Wyman.

So flipping out a tiny jot for Vanity Fair and starting a piece for Pictorial Review. Then driving Richard Barthelmess through town to join Edward G. Robinson and on to the Chatham to Charles G. Norris' annual tea and all the literati appeared to be

Dinner at Gil Boag's new place de L'Opera, showy with ermine and monacles, and dancing with Guy Lombardo's fiddling. Home in a downpour and a 17-year-old jerk in there to spend the night from boarding school. And when I twitted him about his pimples, cowlick and blishes he beamed: "I'm effervescing!"

John Golden, sly in the subtleties that flower on Page One, gave the premiere of his initial offering of the season on Sunday evening, the first Sabbath show since the law changed. Forced to pay double salaries to stage hands, he hiked the usual ante for tickets, trimmed the free list to actual critics and did quite handsomely. Every seat taken and plenty of s'andees. Thus, an opening for the first time in years paid and garnered some bang-up Monday press puffs besides. A slick showman, John!

This address out of the morning mail has had me itchy all day to gallop out and find a callopie to too. Listen: "S. Bayong, Bamrung, Muang Book Depot, 697 Si Kak Sao Ching Cha, Bangkok, Siam."

Personal nomination for the most thrilling climax in the theatre for years. The finale of "The Great Waltz."

Among the embarrassingly nearsighted that includes Betty Starbuck and Libby Holman is Alice Brady. Often she fails to speak to her dearest friends when they are but a few feet away. I am told Miss Brady, so long a stage queen of tragedy, is quite happy about her new casting in the movies as a fluterie comedienne. She believes it her natural forte. Her ability to wring tears, she explains, was only a trick of voice, an elocutionary heel, toe and a 1, 2, 3 and not real acting. It was a gift from childhood. When in a convent she used to make everybody cry by the mere reading of "Hawatha."

Incidentally, the stage and movie folk who know their inevitable hour will strike are heartened by the recent come-back of Greta Nissen. She was once an important in the silent films and also a hit of sorts as the dancer in "Beggars on Horseback." Then came talking pictures and the stage slump. There was a night at Tony's when Miss Nissen, gazing at the whirl of celebrities about her, sighed: "It is rather terrorizing to be a 'has been' at the age of 26!" But that is muddy water over the dam. During the past year she has appeared conspicuously in several shows in London and danced on a number of occasions in select night clubs with the Prince of Wales, no less!

Choo-choo: Among the town's novel hostesses is Mrs. Frank Henderson, wife of the oil man, with costumes to excite the society chattering. Recently she was sheathed in a gown of glittering silver scales, with a long train ending in two points like the tail of a fish. Then there's Fifi Dorsey's snake-like train with red serpent eyes. And Sophie Tucker's sweep of ermine.

Bagatelles: H. G. Wells is one of Sinclair Lewis' most ardent admirers. Winnie Sheehan has many of Remington's most valuable bronzes. Harper's will bring out Will Rogers' syndicated articles in book form. Prince Andrew, of Greece, a monologist, has a chauffeur who sports a monocle. THE STARS SAY

For Tuesday, October 15

The astrological portents for this day seem to have a sinister or queer complex angle, calling for all the sharp and dextrous endowments with which the mentality will be found equipped. There seem to be strange and inexplicable occurrences as well as subtle sources of scandal or attack calling for much wisdom and prudence. This will be felt in both business and private affairs. Change of minor importance seems imminent. Be cautious in employment.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of peculiar, subtle, intriguing and baffling situations, with secret under-currents and possibly scandals of queer origin. However, the mentality will be quick, shrewd and intuitive, thus being well able to cope with this furtive thing. Be prudent and circumspect in all matters, business and private.

A child born on this day may have a crafty, shrewd, inventive and intuitive mind, which it may need to cope with certain strange undercurrents in its life.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

POISON GASES

AT THIS time of the year it is a good plan in every household to have a careful inspection made of the coal and gas stoves, gas jets, flues and gas tubing.

Defective cooking, illuminating and heating appliances may permit an escape of gas which may prove to be extremely dangerous. This is especially so if it occurs during the night. This menace is especially great during cold weather when the windows are closed tight and there is insufficient ventilation.

Of all the poisonous gases known to mankind few others are more deadly than that called "carbon monoxide." This is found in natural gas, coal gas, illuminating gas and the exhaust of automobiles.

Causes Blood Changes

When inhaled it causes sudden changes in the blood, often resulting fatally. The bad effects are due to a chemical reaction between the "hemoglobin," which is the coloring matter of the blood, and the carbon monoxide. The latter prevents the blood from carrying oxygen which is essential to the maintenance of life. The effects are so immediate and profound that unless drastic means of relief are taken at once the victim dies.

During the winter months we read almost daily of accidents caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. Sometimes the accident can be traced to a defective chimney, flue or boiler, or the improper banking of a fire. This tragedy rarely occurs in a home where adequate measures are taken to insure proper ventilation.

The dangers of gas have been known for years, but it is only recently that the automobile has been recognized as an important source of this poisoning. The exhaust gas from the engine contains large amounts of incompletely burned carbon or carbon monoxide. Its inhalation is dangerous, of course.

Mishaps Continue

Warnings against running the engine of a motor vehicle in a closed garage have been widely spread. Yet we hear of more and more of such mishaps. When will everybody stop tinkering with an automobile motor unless the garage doors are wide open and its owner is assured of an adequate amount of fresh air?

Another danger is associated with the heating of a closed car with the engine exhaust. This method is not safe unless you are positively assured there are no leaks in the manifold and plenty of fresh air in the car. Even in cold weather it is best to have a current of fresh air circulating through the car.

Exposure to carbon monoxide leads to headache, dizziness, difficulty in breathing and palpitation of the heart. There may be other symptoms, such as muscular cramps, pain in the abdomen, nausea and vomiting. Soon there is a reddish discoloration of the skin.

If exposed to gas fumes while asleep many a victim has failed to awaken. When the accident is discovered in time, artificial respiration must be applied as in a drowning. The police board of health, gas plant, or nearest hospital should be called immediately. Then experts will give the proper treatment and come prepared to administer oxygen or anything else which seems indicated in the given case.

"LOVE DENIED"

by LOUISE LONG AND ETHEL DOHERTY

SYNOPSIS
Stuart Pennington, struggling young artist, is in love with Sharlene. Standing, wealthy society girl. He goes about listlessly until a letter arrives saying she is returning from her travels. Then he is filled with inspiration and his fingers seem to fly over the canvas. Stuart's model, Julie DeVore, is jealous of Sharlene. She finds Sharlene's letter and reads it with-out compunction. Stuart will not ask Sharlene to marry him because he cannot ask her to share his poverty; besides, she isn't in love with him. But, since the day five years before, when Stuart met Sharlene, there had never been anyone else to give meaning to his life. Sharlene, now, twenty-five, travels exclusively, content to wait that day when she will have some one so much that she can give up her freedom. Stuart is only her best friend but her home-coming was all he could think of. Julie means little to him, she is just a convenient person to have around when he needs a smart, pretty face for an advertisement.

CHAPTER XV
Stuart worked alone all day while she was down at the movie studio saving the "bit" for Bobby Moore. It was a glorious day. The knowledge that Sharlene was coming was intoxicating him. His picture was under his fingers, satisfying. It was a large canvas with intricate detail. Each straining, untried face of the trampled mob in the foreground had received the same treatment of a Rembrandt. But today it was the central figure—stun breaking through clouds—that held his in-creased attention.

Late in the afternoon Lucian Moore climbed the steep path to her room.

"Where's Julie?" he asked, looking around the big room.

"Working over on Moore's lot, I think she said."

"Then I suppose I don't get any reward for walking up rock hill?"

"Help yourself, Lucian—in the box I can't leave this while the light lasts."

Lucian found beer and crackers and stretched out on the couch. He was silent, staring at the picture as Stuart started.

After an hour he got to his feet. Sharlene's sun had set.

"I wish I could trade places with Lucian grumbled discontentedly."

"That's a whole of a concept—that picture. Sun through the clouds of a man's soul. Evolution. Hope.... I want to do it in drama. I could do it. It would be myself! But am I allowed to do anything with any force in it? Not in your life! Dye know what my picture is?"

"Another Reno divorce story—ugh-ho!"

"But you wouldn't exchange with Lucian, even if you could?"

"I wouldn't eh? Why not?"

"Because you get five thousand a week for your pictures. I get a cent for mine."

"He Well, I'm caught in the net there's that place of mine out there. Horses eating their feed, servants eating theirs off."

"Car this month. Georgian and silver—and the wife wants a trip to Europe! Just a word in a cage...."

"Pursued by a nutty nemesis! Stuart. 'What do you put me in a cage for, if you don't love me?'"

"I didn't! It's the wife! Do I get money by things to please her? Not on your life I don't. I even buy one of your pictures, I found it! She won't have modern stuff in the house."

"She rules the cage, eh? said Stuart, glancing curiously at his friend. And you accept it?"

Lucian shrugged. "That's the way of the modern American. Don't let yourself in for a bad boy!"

"I don't intend to," said Stuart.

"Julie!" Julie cried as she came to the door like a small red bird. Then she stood abashed.

"Oh, pardon me, Mr. Morrow. I thought Stuart was here. I was just going to tell him about the supper. Won't you stay and have some?"

"Stuart will get to get back to the studio for a preview at seven."

"I'll hurry. Will you get some beer up from the cellar, Stuart? Mr. Morrow, you help me with the table."

When Stuart had disappeared, Julie was laying the cloth. Julie was with a new air of decision.

You know, Mr. Morrow, it isn't right for Stuart to live like this. He ought to have nice things—room to answer it, hoping that it was a hurry-up call from the studio for another day's work. Another payment was due on that fur coat she had bought.

"Hello," she said, in an affected, ultra English drawl. "Miss DeVore speaking."

"Oh!" said an exquisitely modulated, feminine voice. "I'm afraid I've made a mistake. I was calling Mr. Stuart Pennington's house."

"This is Mr. Pennington's house," snapped Julie, being herself.

"Oh, May I speak to him, please? Tell him it's Miss Standing calling."

Julie took in a quick breath and bit her lip, glancing toward Stuart's bedroom. She had a notion to say he wasn't in—but that was silly as it was not yet seven-thirty in the morning.

"Hello, hello, did you hear?" "Ye-es," grudgingly. "He's asleep but I'll call him." She laid down the instrument and walked resentfully to Stuart's door.

"Your girl friend's on the phone," she told the huddled-up figure on the bed.

"Who?" he asked, sleepily.

"Tell him it's Miss Standing calling," she quoted mockingly.

He sat up as if he had been shot. "Sharlene? That can't be—"

But he jumped out of bed, waiting neither for slippers nor dressing gown and rushed into the next room.

"Hello, hello.... Sharlene!" Julie had never heard his voice sound like that. She had never seen his eyes so blue, so eager. His lips almost touched the mouthpiece, smiling, caressing, as he listened.

"Yes, dear.... Yes, dear.... Will you? Give me a half hour. Bye."

He hung up and ran toward the bathroom, jerking off his pajama coat.

"Any hot water in the tank, Julie?"

"I forgot to put it on."

"But I've got to shave!"

"There's water boiling for the coffee."

"Bring me some, that's a good girl, while I get my shower."

"Don't you want your coffee?" She raised her voice over the sound of the shower.

"No. Going to breakfast with Miss Standing!"

She glared in the direction of the bathroom, then she kicked a footstool savagely aside. It hurt her toe and she cried a little. Then she marched angrily toward the kitchen, her scarlet mules clicking on the bare floor.

"Calling him up a seven-thirty," she muttered furiously, crashing the tea-kettle about on the stove. Wants to keep him dangling.... I wonder if she is crazy about him, after a 12? If she is, she can get him all right."

Stewart gave thanks to the Weather Man that the morning was cool and foggy for Sharlene. The pungent odor of damp eucalyptus leaves assailed him as he turned into the Standing gates and put Mr. Jingle into second gear for the climb up the terraced hill. When he was near the house, the joyous

Theater Attractions

One review of "Broadway Melody of 1936" says "there isn't a bad performance in the picture." It is true that nothing can stop it from being a big box office attraction, with stars such as Jack Benny, Eleanor Powell, Una Merkel, June Knight, Robert Taylor, Frances Langford, Sid Silvers and Harry Stockwell in the cast.

The State theater is showing the musical, the successor to "Broadway Melody," tonight and tomorrow, "Sing Before Breakfast." "You Are My Lucky Star," "Broadway Rhythm" and "I've Got a Feeling You're Foolin'" are the popular songs from this show.

Jack Benny, in this, his second movie venture, is cast as a Broadway columnist who writes the dirt about anyone. Sid Silvers is a writer on the paper and a nuisance to Benny. Una Merkel is a wisecracking secretary, June Knight is cast as a spoiled darling of New York society and does two dance numbers, one with Nick Long and the other alone. Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell supply the love interest with Miss Powell proving that the title she has born for five years is well deserved, that of "the greatest feminine tap-dancer."

Frances Langford, noted radio songstress, sings "You Are My Lucky Star." Harry Stockwell, member of her singing in "Here

Eleanor Powell, star of "Broadway Melody of 1936" showing at State tonight and tomorrow.

Comes the Band" again entertains with a song. Two comedians and dancers who are brother and sister and quite famous do several specialty numbers.

The settings are spectacular and different and were done by Cedric Gibbons.

There are several beautiful dance routines, one unusual number staged by Albertina Rasch, famous for ballet numbers.

Double Bill at Grand

A murder mystery and a racing story make up the bill. The first, the mystery, is entitled "Menace" and Paul Cavanaugh and Gertrude Michael have the leading roles. Miss Michael is cast as a beautiful girl whose life is endangered by a madman who wrongly believes her guilty of his brother's sudden death. From Africa, where the picture's action first takes place, to an isolated house high in the mountains of California, she and her fiancé, Paul Cavanaugh, are trailed by the maniac, hence the title. Through guile and craft the men-

Your chance to go "military" in a nice, safe way! Anne Adams uses brown frogs down the front of a rust-colored cotton corduroy frock that's as new as tomorrow. The gathering under the yoke furnishes the approved touch of softness. The front bodice panel (in one piece with the sleeve and yoke), practically does away with fitting, and makes this pattern one of your happiest choices for easy making, as well as becoming smartness. A perfect frock for school, college, sports or street wear. Lovely in vivid shades of velveteen, too, or in bright cotton plaid. Buttons may be used in place of frogs if you prefer. Pattern available in sizes 12 to 20 and 30 to 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards 36 inch fabric.

Tone Woos And Wins Joan Crawford Just Like In The Movies

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Franchot Tone wooed and won Joan Crawford in real life just as he did before the movie cameras of Hollywood.

Mayor Herbert Jenkins of Englewood Cliffs, N. J., disclosed last night he married the two film stars Friday. It was a simple ceremony, he said.

For two years Tone has played suitor to Miss Crawford, both off and on the screen, since she obtained a divorce from Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Friends of the couple frequently reported their intention to wed. Tone said, on his arrival here simultaneously with Miss Crawford last month, "if people would lay off, maybe she would accept me."

On the application for the license, Miss Crawford gave her age as 26, and Tone said he was 30.

Steel Operations Waver During Week

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—Although auto production increased for the third straight week, a decline in the plate production and lack of railroad orders forced steel operations to drop 1 1/2 points to 52 per cent last week.

Uncertainties created by the Italo-Ethiopian war have caused the industry to waver to some extent, said the magazine Steel today, pointing out that "a situation somewhat like that prevailed at the outbreak of the World War in 1914."

Operations in the Chicago district declined two points to 58 per cent; Detroit six to 88; Cleveland three to 59; while New England gained two points to 68 per cent. Other districts remained unchanged. The iron and steel production composite of the magazine advanced three cents to $32.85. The scrap index held at $12.75.

Faces Second Trial In Court At Warren

WARREN, Oct. 14.—Ten heavily-armed officers brought Elmer E. Martin to court today on a charge of killing Charles Campbell, of Tucson, Ariz.

Once sentenced to death for the killing, Martin was granted a new trial by the Ohio supreme court, although he had asked that no attempt to save him from the electric chair be made.

Martin escaped from the jail here before his first trial, but was recaptured soon afterward in a hotel not far from the prison. Deputies halted what they said was another escape plot last week when they found several window bars in the jail partially sawed.

PAUL S. SEELEY GIVES ADDRESS

Oregonian Is Speaker at Christian Science Rally Here

Paul Stark Seeley of Portland, Ore., gave a lecture on Christian Science, entitled, "The Law of God," Sunday afternoon in Salem High school auditorium.

The speaker said that "law lives and operates in thought. God has put the spiritual law within us and is helping us to understand and use the divine force."

Protect Man

"God's laws are expressed by man; they protect him," the lecturer told his audience. He drew a comparison between the material mind and the spiritual force and said that "the negative material substitute for God is condemned to remain outside the bounds of infinity in the darkness of oblivion."

"Where is law? Law is not far away. Every moment we are yielding ourselves to some law force. Law is as close to us as thought. It is Mind's energy and inseparable from thought. Law lives in us," he continued.

"Suppose we walk, or ride, down a busy street in a large city and come to a red traffic signal. We stop. Why? Because of the traffic law. But where is the law? No one sees it. It is not in the light, or in the car, or in the body of the pedestrian. Nor is it in some dusty law book somewhere. Law is more alive than a book's paper and ink. Where is the law, then? The law is in the thinking of the people. Cars stop, and bodies stop, because men think what we call the traffic law. The traffic moves and stops in an orderly way because men think lawfully."

As with the traffic so with God's law—the moral, spiritual law. It is in our thought. God has put it there to govern us. Says the Bible, 'I will put my laws into their mind,' and again, 'The law of his God is in his heart; none of his steps shall slide.'

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women who suffered from constipation. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets at night for a week and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then—to keep fit, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Palestine scored their other six-point in the third period after having advanced the ball to the Lisbon 15. Lisbon then drew a penalty to within one-yard line of goal. From that point Morris plunged for the touchdown. A placement kick try for the extra point was blocked. Lineups:

Sports Sketches

INTERNATIONAL ILLUSTRATED NEWS

E. X. Bible, Colonel to his Nebraska Cornhuskers, seems to have overcome his pre-season worries of a weak line if Nebraska's strong performance against Chicago and Iowa State means anything. Two grand ends, Bernie Scherer and Elmer Dohrmann, flank a sizeable center line which can open holes for the Colonel's galaxy of lettermen in the backfield.

IN TALL HUSKING AHEAD
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 14.—Paul Runyan, National F. G. A. champion, the little golfer with the big wallop and the deadly putter, added another thousand dollars to his bankroll today and also acquired another title—that of Louisville open golf champion.

Touring the Audubon Country club course yesterday in a fashion that left smoking fairways in his wake the diminutive 27-year-old Arkansas farm boy, now professional at the Metropolis club, White Plains, N. Y., overhauled the early leader, Alvin Krueger, of Beloit, Wis., to annex the Louisville title.

Blazing a trail of birdies on the nine-hole home stretch, Runyan played inspired golf to wind up with a 72-hole score of 283, one under par, after starting the day's play two strokes behind Krueger. He made four birdies on his final nine, for a 33, three under par figure.

State heads a three-game conference bill, the other numbers of which will bring Purdue and Chicago together at Stagg Field, and Michigan and Wisconsin into action at Madison. Minnesota's 1935-model powerhouse will entertain Tulane at Minneapolis, (and Indiana goes to Cincinnati, for the other games of the day. Iowa and Illinois both victorious in inter-sectional battles Saturday, which meet at Champaign a week from Saturday, have open dates.

Notre Dame, responsible for the only Big Ten setback Saturday by its 27 to 0 victory over Wisconsin, meets the Pittsburgh Panther at South Bend.

Ohio State Favored
Ohio State, which gave Drake a Merciless 85 to 7 mauling Saturday, will go to bat against Northwestern and Illinois in the first quarter of the Big Ten season. The Buckeyes, led by Joe Williams, piled up 13 touchdowns and 39 first downs against the bewildered bulldogs. It is not likely, however, that they will not be forced to extend themselves against the Wildcats who will have had two weeks in which to wind up for the battle.

Purdue, by whipping a good Fordham eleven, 20 to 0, did its bit for the Big Ten prestige and became a long choice to defeat Chicago. The Boilermakers conquered the Ram without any help from Cecil Isbell, their sophomore half-back star, and with very little assistance from John Drake, both having been listed as casualties. Chicago, as long as Jay Berwanger and the other regular backs were in there outclassed Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich. The Maroons won 31 to 6.

Michigan Over Wisconsin
Michigan, which took advantage of an Indiana error to fashion a 7 to 0 victory, its first conference triumph since 1933, will be favored over Wisconsin. The Badgers gave Notre Dame a tussle for a few minutes, but faded as the Irish machine got underway. Tulane, which conquered Florida, 19 to 7, probably will find Minnesota too tough. The Gophers proved that they are little, if any weaker than last year, by pulling apart Nebraska's national title hopes, 12 to 7.

Iowa and Illinois' contributions to a happy Big Ten day were somewhat unexpected. The Hawkeyes recovered from an early shock to defeat Colgate's famous Red Raiders, 12 to 6, with Oze Simmons, fleet Negro back, scoring both touchdowns. Illinois, crippled and playing under unfavorable climatic conditions, used Bob Zupke's tricky pass plays, and a cast iron defense to trounce Southern California, 19 to 0, at Los Angeles.

To Leave For Coast

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—Al Hamilton, Cincinnati's light heavyweight champion, will meet Wesley Martin of Cleveland in the ten-round finale of a boxing show Wednesday night at Music Hall. After the bout, Hamilton will leave for the Pacific Coast, where he is booked for a series of bouts.

Johnny Stevens, local southpaw, will face Billy Mack, Akron featherweight, in the six round semi-final.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Fred Hoover readily admitted being a bigamist, when told Michigan divorcees are not recognized by Pennsylvania. He objected, however, to his first wife's application for increase of her $2 weekly alimony.

Bill Kaiser of Louisville; Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. Y.; Al Krueger, Saturday's leader, and Frank Walsh of Chicago finished in a tie for fourth, six strokes out of first place.

Cooper turned in the best performance of the final day's play with a 69 in the afternoon round.

Leetonia Unable to Register One First Down During Game

LEETONIA, Oct. 14.—Unable to register one first down during the entire contest, the Leetonia High school griders went down to defeat 14-0 at the hands of Boardman High at Boardman Saturday.

Martaux Scores
Martaux of Boardman opened the contest when he sprinted 20 yards on the second play of the game to give Boardman a first in 10 on the Leetonia 40-yard stripe. Nicolette of Leetonia spoiled the Burklem's chances, however when he intercepted a wild Boardman pass. Boardman lost no time in the second half. Leeson whipped a long pass to Beard for a first down on Leetonia 30-yard marker. Leeson and Wagman headed the Boardman parade that netted four consecutive first down and placed the oval on the 11-yard line where Leeson rounded end and cut along the side lines for the score. Leeson place kicked the ball for the extra point.

Runs 87 Yards
Wagman grabbed a high Leetonia boot late in the quarter and sprinted 87 yards through the whole Leetonia squad for the second Boardman tally. Leeson again took the ball through the cross bars for the seventh point.

Boardman garnered 12 first downs in the contest. Porter and Beard featured the Boardman defense, while Woods and Nicolette looked best for the losers.

THE SALEM NEWS SPORTS

A Player's Player

NESTOR HENRION

Henrion is what is known among football experts as a "players' player." That is the highest praise, for no matter what the crowd thinks, the boys who are playing the game, both opponents and team-mates, realize his worth. As a sophomore last year, the Charlevoix boy, playing left guard, he was considered the greatest lineman Carnegie Tech ever had. He was left tackle to fill a big hole caused by the graduation of all the experienced tackles of the 1934 squad. His terrific charge, great strength and all-around smartness are expected to make him just as great a tackle as he was a guard.

Chicago Cardinals Down Green Bay To Stay Undeclared In Pro Circuit

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The rest of the National Professional Football League has just about decided that the Chicago Cardinals, who were not listed among the pre-season title threats, must be taken seriously.

Operating under Milan Creighton, former Arkansas star end and the only playing coach in the league, the Cardinals today were the only undefeated team.

The Cards scored their second victory yesterday, 3 to 0, over the revived Green Bay Packers, on a 12-yard dropkick by Paul Pardonner, former Purdue quarterback, in the second period.

The champion New York Giants retained first place in the eastern section of the league by conquering Brooklyn, 16 to 7.

Red Pollock scored three touchdowns in the second period on end runs to lead the Chicago Bears to a 39 to 0 triumph over Philadelphia.

Earl (Dutch) Clark place-kicked a 35-yard field goal in the first period and added a touchdown in the third, as the Detroit Lions whipped Boston, 17 to 7. The other Lion score was made by Ernie Cadden in the fourth session, after Pug Renner had passed to Charlie Malone for the only Redskin score.

LAURENS, Ia.—An airplane was used to capture a runaway steer. George Buckwalter, after hours of futile searching, chartered a plane.

The steer was spotted lying in the corn. A lariat expert made the capture with directions from the pilot.

SALEM RUNNERS WIN 2ND MATCH

Down Akron East, 19-42, at Centennial Park Saturday

With Paul Roelen again in the winning role, Salem High school's harriers chalked up their second victory of the season at the expense of Akron East High's cross country team at Centennial park Saturday. The Quakers kept their total points down to 19 while Akron East collected a 42 point total.

Turns in Fast Time
Roelen crossed the finish line ahead of his teammate Culler after running the two-mile course in 10 minutes and 40 seconds, the fastest time a Quaker runner has made since Harold Horstman, former state champion, was pacing the cinder path under the red and black colors.

Brandt, finishing in third position, was the first Akron East runner to breast the take.

The Quakers five man team finished in first, second, fourth, fifth and seventh positions.

How They Finished
Following are the runners who finished in the first ten positions.

Last Half Rally Enables Canfield To Defeat Columbiana Gridders

COLUMBIANA, Oct. 14.—Staging a last half rally, Canfield High school griders chalked up a 13-7 victory over a previously undefeated Columbiana High here Saturday.

Canfield made its bid at the start of the third period. Taking the ball in mid-field, they marched toward the goal line with J. Cashion going over for the touchdown from the 10-yard line on a run around left end. The try for extra point failed.

The next Canfield score came several minutes later when the kick-off, a free ball, rolled over the goal line and Troughy, Canfield back, fell on the ball for a marker. The try for extra point was good.

The Columbiana boys were completely out-classed during the last period as Canfield drove the ball deep into the enemy territory. The oval was in Canfield's possession on the Columbiana five-yard line as the game ended.

Powerful Grid Teams To Meet In Contests Billed For Saturday

Appearances Are That Ups and Downs Which Have Made Mark on 1935 Football Season Will Continue Saturday

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—From the looks of this week's schedule, the breath-taking ups and downs that already have put their mark on the 1935 football season will continue Saturday.

To the fans who like to look back at the era of benighted behemoths of the gridiron and 15-man teams, this is the week when Princeton plays Rutgers again and the week when "Stagg" fears Purdue.

Playing Since 1869
The Tigers and their New Jersey neighbors inaugurated the autumn custom of playing college football games back in 1869. After drifting apart many years ago, they renewed their rivalry in 1933. This week's meeting will be their thirty-third, and the indications are that Princeton will ring up its thirty-second victory.

With the grand old man, Amos Alonzo Stagg, gone from Chicago and the tale about his "fearing Purdue" worn thin by the Boiler-makers' rise to power, the clash between the Maroons and Purdue still ranks as one of the best of the week on the Big Ten program.

The game, however, doesn't measure up in prospect to the battle between the mighty Ohio State team, which wallowed Drake 85 to 7 Saturday, and Northwestern's stubborn defensive array.

Of prime interest among the week's inter-sectional games are Notre Dame-Pittsburgh, Minnesota-Tulane, Boston College-Michigan State, Detroit-Catholic University, and Fordham-Vanderbilt.

FIT To Test Irish
Pitt, though not so strong as last year, should be good enough to give the fighting Irish their stiffest test so far.

Other important inter-sectional clashes include the Centenary-Texas and Louisiana State-Arkansas games, sending strong southern teams against southwest conference rivals; Syracuse-Ohio Wesleyan, and Friday's Duquesne-Washington (St. Louis) encounter.

In the east Saturday there is the Army-Harvard game, always colorful despite the crimson's lack of success so far; the somewhat more promising Yale-Navy game, sending the unbeaten tars against Penn 31-20, and such old standbys as Penn-Columbia, Brown-Dartmouth and Carnegie Tech-Temple.

Big Southern Games
Southern California, victim of a 190 trimming by Illinois, returns to conference competition against Oregon State, Washington and Washington State stage their annual scrap and California takes on Santa Clara.

Mississippi, one of the ranking southeastern conference teams, meets Florida; Alabama's Tidesmen, who were wallowed 20-7 by Mississippi State, play Tennessee, and Auburn encounters Kentucky in the big games of one southern group.

In the other Duke, acknowledged southern conference leader, faces Georgia Tech; North Carolina, leading challenger, plays an outsider, Davidson; Georgia meets North Carolina State, and Maryland meets Virginia military.

Rice and Southern Methodist battle to eliminate one or the other from the southwest conference race, while Texas A. & M. and Texas Christian meet on the same basis.

The Rocky Mountain conference clashes lead off with Utah State-Denver, with Colorado Mines-Cororado, Colorado College-Brimham Young and Friday's Greeley State-Montana State games rounding out the list.

PITTSBURGH—Blue Monday is made bluer for housewives in the Squirrel Hill district here by the ravages of a mischievous little monkey who seems to delight in swiping clothespins and letting the family washing scuttle merrily along in the dirt.

COUNCIL, BLUFFS, Ia.—Life is just a series of adventures for Miss Sunny Heath. She has been in two airplane wrecks, three auto accidents, a train crash, and had her automobile blown off the highway during a Kansas tornado. She was never injured seriously.

ROBINSONS WIN KIDNAPING CASE

Weep After Their Acquittal in Court at Louisville, Ky.

(By Associated Press)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 14.—Their year-long fight to win vindication in the kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Sped Stoll successfully terminated, Mrs. Frances Robinson and her father-in-law, Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., of Nashville, had returned to Tennessee today.

After a jury in federal court had deliberated seven hours and thirty-five minutes the Robinsons were acquitted of conspiracy charges yesterday in connection with the abduction of the Louisville society matron, wife of a wealthy oil executive. The trial lasted six days.

Emotionally Upset
With tears coursing down her cheeks, Mrs. Robinson greeted the verdict with the statement: "I don't think I'll ever be this happy again."

"Thank God!" said Robinson, Sr., choking with emotion, as he wiped tears from his eyes.

From Nashville came word that Mrs. Robinson had made plans to divorce the fugitive Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., sought as the man who abducted Mrs. Stoll, held her for six days in an Indianapolis apartment and released her after col-

Automobile Mishap Deaths Show Gain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Fifteen per cent more people were killed in automobile accidents in 1934 than in 1933.

The census bureau says that the number killed last year—33,980—was a "new all-time high." This total represented an average death rate of 26.9 per cent out of every 100,000.

Late figures covering 86 major cities for the 52 weeks ended Sept. 28 indicate the automobile death rate was continuing upward this year.

JAPS, RUSSIANS IN BORDER CLASH

Casualties Listed on Both Sides; Markings of Line Protested

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO, Oct. 14.—The latest in a series of incidents on the Russian-Manchoukuo border, in which Soviet guards and members of a Japanese-Manchoukuo detachment met death, precipitated a vigorous protest today by Moscow and a Japanese response that the border should be marked more plainly.

Replying to representations made by Soviet Ambassador Yurenev to the foreign office on an exchange of gunfire Saturday night, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota urged delimiting of the border on the ground that its ambiguity had been responsible for numerous frontier clashes.

The foreign minister told Yurenev he lacked official information on the Saturday clash and would have to communicate with the Manchoukuo government before replying to the protest.

For his part, Yurenev submitted a proposal for a commission to investigate the affair, which occurred on the heels of frontier incidents Oct. 6 and 8.

On Saturday the Russian diplomat protested the earlier clashes which from reports received here, apparently were bloodless.

Soviet officials insisted Saturday's shooting was occasioned by an attack of the Soviet guard patrol, but dispatches from Hsinking and Harbin carrying the Manchoukuoan version said the exchange of fire occurred on Manchoukuoan territory.

The number of casualties was not given.
